ENGLEBRIGHT ANNOUNCES HIS CANDIDACY

We have received the following communication from Congressman Englebright in which he formally announces himself as a candidate for renomination and election.

House of Representatives, Committee on Mines and Mining, Washington, D. C., April 17, 1908.

Amador Ledger:—Permit me to respectfully request that you inform my many friends that I will be a candidate for renomination as representative to congress from the first district before the republican district convention to be held some time in August, 1908.

I am extremely busy here at my post looking out for the many interests of this large district, and to do it justice cannot now take time for politics, but must rely on my friends to look out for my interests. I would request a continuance of your support and after congress adjourns a careful consideration of my record.

Any representative to be useful to his district, to have weight here and be able to accomplish something for his constituency is one who is returned for succeeding terms, becomes familiar with the actual workings of congress and acquainted with the other members. So I trust you will feel warranted in a continuance of that confidence which the people expressed by giving me such a large majority at the last election. Assuring you that I will be pleased to hear from you regarding any matter of interest to yourself or your locality and with the kindest of regards, I remain,
Sincerely yours,
W. F. Englebright,
M. C., First California District.

Recovered His Money.

Last Saturday an Austrian miner arrived in this city from Arizona, and put up at the Exchange lodging house kept by John Chinn. It seems that upon retiring for the night, he took his wad of money, consisting of $130 in greenbacks, and stuffed the same under his pillow, as a safe depository. Sunday morning he went to work, forgetting to withdraw his wealth from its hiding place. Mrs. Chinn on making up the beds found the roll of money in the place where its owner had left it, and of course took charge of it to restore it to the roomer. On his return from his shift, the lodger presumably went to his room and took a peep into his improvised safe deposit box, and found his wad missing. He immediately hunted up the landlord, and excitedly inquired who made up the bed that morning. Being informed that it was Mrs. Chinn, he hunted her up. As soon as he approached she surmised at once his mission, and quieted his fears by saying, "I know what you want," and immediately produced his missing roll of greenbacks, just as he had left it under his pillow. He was so delighted at finding his wealth intact that he insisted upon making Mrs. Chinn a present of $5 in recognition of her services in taking care of his currency under the circumstances, and considers himself lucky that his own carelessness cost him such a trifling sum.

Democratic Delegates.

Notices have been posted up by the democratic county central committee calling the members of the democratic party to meet in caucus in their respective townships for the purpose of electing or nominating one delegate from each township as a delegate to the state convention which meets in Fresno.

Disgraceful Proceedings.

(Communicated.)

Last Sunday evening in the neighborhood of the M. E. church on Main street in Sutter Creek a number of men and boys by boisterous conduct greatly disturbed the religious services held in the church; they not only engaged in loud talking, but shouting and at times called out in a loud tone "Amen." It is a criminal offense to intentionally disturb a religious meeting and we ask the peace officers of Sutter Creek, especially the constable, why they permit such conduct in a civilized community.

Jackson Defeats Electra.

Last Sunday the Electra baseball nine met the Jackson aggregation on the local diamond, and though they played a good game, the locals were too much for them. The score at the end of the game stood 8 to 0 with the visitors on the small end. In the first inning the Jacksons scored three runs, but from then on until after the game was half over they failed to score. Then they came in a bunch, scoring five runs in a few minutes. "Sockey" Arditto, who twirled the ball for Jackson, was at his best, and certainly had the support of the rest of the team as is shown by the score. The visitors got dangerously near the home plate more than once, but each time they were headed off before a score could be made. Special mention should be made of "Husk" Fryer, pitcher for the Electra boys. He pitched an excellent game, but the rest of the team failed to support him properly.

Eagles Installed.

Sixty-five neophytes were initiated at the institution of the Eagles last Monday evening, the visiting team from Sacramento performing the ritual work. W. J. Fetherston, district organizer, was in charge. Of the entire class only about ten were put through all of the funny stunts. The following officers were elected, and installed: C. B. Arditto, past president; E. E. Endicott, president; Tom Joy, vice president; A. M. Hambric, chaplain; M. F. Calkins, secretary; P. L. Cassinelli, treasurer; S. F. Dal Porto, inside guard; Wm. Tam Jr., outside guard; Vic Rocco, W. O. Green and Geo. M. Huberty trustees. After the services they all adjourned to the California hotel, where a banquet was served.

Boys Will Be Boys

and are always getting scratches, cuts, sprains, bruises, bumps, burns or scalds. Don't neglect such things—they may result serious if you do. Burrows Applies For Franchise in Turlock.

Tom J. Burrows, Jackson manager of the Amador County Electric Light and Railway Co., has applied to the trustees of the city of Turlock, Stanislaus county, for a franchise to operate an electric lighting and water system for the entire town. The proposition has been advertised by the city and the privilege will be sold to the highest bidder. The matter will be decided within the next couple of weeks. It is understood that there are a number that would like to obtain the privilege, so more than one bid will probably be presented to the board. It is his intention, if he is successful in obtaining the franchise, to install a steam plant for the generation of the electricity, and install a pumping plant and a large tank for the storage of the water. Mr. Burrows stated to a representative of this paper that he has no intention of leaving Jackson, at least not at the present time.

Episcopal Theatrical Was a Great Success.

"Uncle Rube," which was the theatrical given by the ladies of St. Augustine's Episcopal church of this city for the benefit of that church, was certainly a success, both socially and financially. They made special efforts to make it such and deserve credit for the manner in which they worked to that end. All the actors had their parts well memorized, so that the play went off without a hitch. Fully 400 people witnessed it, and all left satisfied. After the play a dance was given, and a supper served the members of the troupe. The receipts for the evening amounted to $245, while the expenses were $65, leaving a balance of $180. Following is the cast of character:

Keuben Rodney, justice of the peace, school trustee, and a master hand at "swappin' horses," R. S. Bierce; Deacon Smalley, a smooth old villain, James Mortimer; Mark, his son; a promising rascal, Wm. Schroeder; Gordon Gray, a young artist, Dr. J. D. Fogarty; Upson Asterbilt, a New York swell, Wm. M. Perry Jr.; Ike, the hired man, Ross Moon; Bob Green, a young rustic, F. B. LeMoin; Bill Tappan, a constable, Alex F. Ross; Millicent Lee, "the pretty schoolma'am," Miss Hazel Green; Mrs. Maria Bann, a charming widow, Miss Emma Boorman; Taggs, a wait from New York, Miss Loretta Meehan.

MINING NOTES.

Central Eureka.—The prospects for the rehabilitation of the Central Eureka are very encouraging and our people are jubilant over the fact. This week a committee appointed by the directors came to Sutter Creek to look into the affairs of the mine. The Central Eureka is one of the greatest mines in the world and with its resumption of operations the wheels of industry will again hum in Sutter Creek, provided those mongrel tribes of the most foreign of foreigners are not employed to the exclusion of white men—men who are of us and with us with homes and families.—Record.

The Gwin Mining Company has levied an assessment of 20 cents per share. There are 100,000 shares, so that the assessment will realize $20,000. The mine has been running behind, and has accumulated an indebtedness of considerable amount.

Argonaut—Mr. Mathews, the principal stockholder of this mine, is expected to arrive here any day from New York, on matters concerning the mine. The rumor about changes to be made in the management is merely conjectural. Twenty stamps of the mill are kept running, and it is hoped to be able to keep this number running during the continuance of sinking operations. It is the intention to push the sinking several hundred feet deeper, and this will take from three to four months to complete.

Attempted Hold Up.

While on his way from the Kennedy mine to the boarding house of Chris Cojovich, at which place he was staying, an Austrian was held up for the apparent purpose of robbery. He was walking along quietly, when a man stepped in front of him, ordering the pedestrian to stop, and throw up his hands. He remonstrated with the hold-up man, but he was again ordered to throw up his hands, at which he struck the fellow in the face and started to run. After taking a few steps another fellow jumped out and ordered him to stop, but he kept on running until he reached the boarding house, where he told the rest of the boarders his experience. They immediately armed themselves with anything available and started out to find the two fellows. When they reached the place about where the hold-up occurred they met Lee Kerfoot and Frank Garbarini, and thinking that they were the ones stopped them; but they soon showed that they had nothing to do with the affair.

APPOINTING DELEGATES.

It is regrettable that, after the severe experience handed out to the republicans of California two years ago, some county central committees are resolved this year to repeat the blunder of appointing delegates to the coming state convention. This action is all the more noticeable from the fact that these county bodies are left without the shadow of an excuse for so doing. In the last campaign they were able to plead that the call of the state committee gave them authority for such usurpation of power—a miserable pretext at best. This year, however, no doubt put wise by the repudiation of this policy by one-third of the party voters throughout the state, the state committee has recommended that delegates be selected directly by the party voters, and has even gone further than this by recommending that at the primary elections each voter be given an opportunity to express his preference for presidential candidate. This latter proposition, if faithfully carried out, would be equal to instructions to the delegates how to vote on the presidential issue in the state convention. It simply serves to show how careful the body is on the eve of a national campaign not to afford grounds for offense by anything that might be construed as the exercise of arbitrary power. They have discovered by a bitter experience that it doesn't pay from a party standpoint to repudiate those who are expected to furnish the ballots in sufficient quantities to elect the ticket when the decisive day arrives. How, under these conditions, a county committee should attempt to appoint delegates we are a loss to understand on any theory of true party allegiance. And yet it is being done in a number of the interior counties.

The obtruding into the field of the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League has brought on a factional fight within the party ranks. The coupling of the name of the great emancipator with that of the present occupant of the white house was evidently designed for stage-play effect, a magnet to attract voters to its standard. The characters of the martyred and the living president have little in common to justify such a linking of their names. The objects of the league are many, and therein, perhaps, lies its weakness. It aims to do away with machine politics, with trading delegations in party conventions, with unauthorized exercise of authority by state and county committees. These are commendable steps in the direction of reform, and will command the approval of the masses of republicans. But there is a lurking suspicion that selfish motives are hidden behind the agitation; that the ultimate object is merely the dethroning of one set of bosses for the purpose of setting up another and may-be more objectionable set. One of the avowed purposes of the movement is to secure the election of delegates to the national convention who are favorable to Taft or some other candidate committed to the carrying out of the Roosevelt policies. This raises a suspicion that the scheme is floated with the main object of boosting the administration candidate for president. There are other earmarks that tend to shake confidence in the so-called reform program.

The Ledger has consistently advocated the sending of unpledged delegates to political conventions. We have the utmost faith in the sound judgment of republican voters when left entirely free in the exercise of discretionary power. We have little faith in the average politician, whose party fealty is subordinated to his own personal ambitions. Individual ambitions cannot be eliminated from the political field. They always have been, and doubtless always will be, a potent factor in the shaping of party action. At the same time they must, in order to achieve the best results, be made subservient to the interests of the party as a whole. Just now the peculiar situation is presented of the republican state committee urging on broad lines that all vital matters be referred to the rank and file for settlement. On the other hand one wing, while contending for essential principles, is at the same time engaged in trying to tie up the California delegation to the presidential candidate who is backed by the power of the national administration, and apparently mainly because of such backing. In other words, state machine politics should be downed, and national machine domination should be favored in its stead. A funny situation to say the least.

Gender Individuality.
We had the best chance of studying the colors of the condor head. The bill was horn color, and the red skin of the head extended down, covering it about halfway. The legs were tan, but on each knee was a patch of red. On the breast of each bird the skin was blood red and could be seen occasionally when the breast feathers were spread and the birds were preening. Both had light colored wing bars, and the primaries were well worn. The skin on the throat hung loose, and the lower mandible fitted close under the upper. The chin was orange red, and below this on the neck was a strip of greenish yellow merging into the orange about the sides and back of the neck. The top and front of the head were red, but between the eyes was a small patch of black feathers, and these extended down in front of the eye into the orange red of the cheek. The pupil of the eye was black, but the iris was deep and red and conspicuous. The bald and wrinkled pate, the flabby jowls, with the cave-in expression of a toothless old woman—these helped to make up the condor individuality.—William L. Finley in Century.

It Didn't Come Natural.

"I have heard that man tell the truth once or twice," said one Wall street man talking of another. "He can tell the truth, I admit, but it does not come natural to him. He reminds me of the Russian moujik."
"A Russian moujik sat one day in the anteroom of the military commissioner of his town. There was an anxious frown on his face. A friend approached and said:
"What is the matter, Piotr?"
"I am worried," Piotr answered, "about my son. I don't know what to say when the commissioner asks me about his age. You see, if I make him younger than he is he will be sent back to school, and if I make him out older they'll stick him in the army. What the deuce am I to do?"
"How would it do," said the friend thoughtfully, "if you told the commissioner his exact age?"
"Piotr slapped his leg and laughed delightedly.
"The very thing!" he cried. "I never thought of that!"

Pay of Army Officers.

When a young man becomes a cadet at West Point, he enters upon a government allowance of $609.50 a year. On graduation the West Pointer is commissioned a second lieutenant and receives a salary of $1,400 if unmounted or $1,500 if mounted. Increases at each five year period bring the pay at the end of twenty years up to $1,900 in the one case and $2,100 in the other.
The pay of first lieutenants begins at $1,500 and $1,600; captains, $1,800 and $2,000; majors, $2,500; lieutenant colonels, $3,000; colonels, $3,500. Each officer attains a 40 per cent maximum increase in twenty years.
On the average the salary of the army officer is higher than that of the college professor, the minister or the graded civil service employee. The officer has allowances for residence and personal attendance. He may buy household supplies from a government commissary at cost.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Could We Live on Mars?

The physical conditions on Mars are in many ways intermediate between those found upon the earth and the moon, and it seems plausible that the life existing upon it should similarly be of a higher type than that found on the moon and of a lower type than that found at present on the surface of the earth. Even if the physical conditions, as we understand them, were equally favorable with those on the earth, civilization would by no means be a necessary consequence. Had it not been settled by Europeans the United States would still be a wilderness. How much less should we hasten to accord civilization to a planet of which we know little, except that if we were transported there ourselves we should instantly die.—Professor W. H. Pickering in Harper's Magazine.

Wise Insects.

In his experiments to determine whether it is the color or the odor of flowers that attracts bees and other insects M. Plateau, the Belgian zoologist, bethought him of trying a mirror. He selected a flower of striking color and strong odor and placed it before an excellent glass in which the reflection was perfect. All the insects went straight to the real flower, and not a single one approached the reflection in the mirror.—Youth's Companion.

Joining the Great.

An Oxford undergraduate was reciting a memorized oration in one of the classes in public speaking. After the first two sentences his memory failed, and a look of blank despair came over his face. He began as follows:
"Ladies and Gentlemen—Pitt is dead. Fox is dead. Gladstone is dead"—Then, forgetting, he hesitated for a moment and continued, "And—I—I—I am beginning to feel pretty 'sick' myself."—Lloyd's Weekly.

The Poet's Son.

"Why, Freddy, how dirty you are, and only yesterday you wrote a verse for papa's birthday, promising always to wash your hands clean."
"Well, mamma, that was only a poetic license."—Fliegende Blätter.

Asserting Himself.

He—Will you be my wife? She—The idea! Don't be ridiculous. He—Yes, I know it sounds ridiculous; but, then, I'm not so particular as some men are. —Boston Transcript.

Amador County Descriptive Article

Amador county comprises an area of 548 square miles. It lies on the western slope of Sierra Nevada mountains, and embraces within its territory all the diversity of valley, foothill, and high mountainous lands.

Climate.—The climate of the populous portions of the county is as genial and healthful as can be found anywhere in California. As climate is one of the most valuable assets of this favored state in attracting population, Amador stands second to no county in this regard. It should, and no doubt will in time, when its climatic advantages are more thoroughly understood and appreciated, become a health resort not only for those in less favored states, but for the residents of other parts of California. The temperature alone the central portion rarely falls below 30 degrees above zero in winter, and as rarely rises to 100 degrees in the summer. Snow seldom falls in the settled districts, and never remains on the ground for more than a few hours. Of course, in the high mountain regions of eastern Amador the snowfall is very heavy—which is characteristic of the entire Sierra Nevada range. The summer season is always accompanied with cool nights; permitting of sound, refreshing slumber. Fogs are rare, cyclones are unknown, thunderstorms are infrequent.

Gold Mining.—The county, although rich in other sources of wealth, comparatively untouched, is noted principally for her quartz mines. The deepest gold mines in America are located here. The Kennedy mine is now taking gold in liberal quantities from quartz extracted from a depth of over 2000 feet below the surface, with every indication that the pay-ore extends to a much greater depth. Since the discovery of gold, the county has contributed fully $100,000,000 to the world's supply of the precious metal. The mines are still yielding at the rate of about two million dollars annually. Nearly all of this wealth is produced by eight or ten mines operating on what is called the "mother lode," stretching clear across the county in a north-easterly direction a distance of twenty miles. The mines aggregate between 400 and 500 stamps, and furnish employment for over 1000 miners. This industry is still in its infancy. The unexplored territory, even along the main gold belt, is far in excess of the ground that has actually been worked or prospected. The county offers today one of the most inviting fields to be found anywhere in the world for the investment of capital in the fascinating business of gold mining, not alone along the mother lode, but also in the almost untouched mineralized country of the east belt, some ten or twelve miles from the main lode.

Besides gold, we have copper, deposits of pottery, coal, marble, slate, limestone, granite, and soapstone or talc—all undeveloped.

Agricultural Capabilities.—The agricultural possibilities equal, if not excel, the mineral riches. The valley lands will produce anything that can be grown in the most favored sections. In the foothill lands all kinds of deciduous fruits thrive; also all kinds of vegetable are raised where irrigation is practicable along the numerous water courses. Further up in the mountains, at an altitude of 2000 to 2500 feet, the soil is admirably adapted for apples and potatoes. A ready market for many times the quantity now raised of these commodities can be found in the various mining towns.

Grape culture and winemaking are becoming important industries, both the grapes and wine commanding a better price than the product of the lowland.

Land is cheap compared with other California lands. Improved farms may be secured for one-fourth the price current in some places. Unimproved lands can be had from $5 to $10 per acre. It does not require a fortune to buy a small ranch. There is room for a large addition to our agricultural population. Vast tracts now devoted to cattle ranges might be made the homes of hundreds of prosperous farmers.

Amador has a population of less than 12,000. Three-fourths of this is concentrated in a strip of three miles above and below the mineral belt.

Jackson, the county seat, has about 2500 inhabitants, and is an incorporated city of the sixth class. Other towns are Sutter Creek, Amador City, Drytown, Plymouth, Volcano, Pine Grove and Oleta. Ione City is the metropolis of the valley section, a thriving town of 1000 inhabitants.

The community is law-abiding. Educational facilities are excellent. A schoolhouse is within easy reach of nearly every family. There is one high school, located at Ione.

The assessment roll for 1907 is $5,800,793, and the tax rate for both state and county purposes $2 on the $100.

The Southern Pacific has a branch railroad running to Ione. From this point the Ione and Eastern railroad extends 14 miles further to the mining section.

The various religious denominations and fraternal organizations are well represented.

The power plant of the Standard Electric Co.—one of the largest in the world—is located four miles from Jackson.

Washington Letter.

Washington, D. C., April —, 1908.

With the selection of the delegates in New York for Hughes most of them, and a solid delegation for Knox in Pennsylvania, the allies, as the other presidential candidates are called, are ahead of secretary Taft in point of delegates, and Washington is seething with political talk.

Senator Jonathan Bourne, jr., of Oregon, the original second elective term man, is growing happier every day, because he professes to see a development of his idea all over the country.

More insistent pressure is being brought to bear every day on president Roosevelt to change his mind about another term. Politicians from all over the country are going to him, pleading that he permit himself to be named again. Their reason is given as fear for the success of the republican ticket if Taft is nominated. Clouds are gathering on the horizon of the Taft boom every day, and they are worrying the managers of that expensive campaign, which is said to have cost more than $500,000 up to date.

In many states, the negroes hold the balance of power, and the labor vote is being lined up solidly against the secretary. In many states, where elections are close, the state tickets have been named, and the nominees of the republican party want a man at the head of the ticket who will be sure to carry them through to success. In the past week there have been three distinct and important protests made against the Taft candidacy, and they are certainly worth consideration at the hands of partisans who want the ticket to succeed next November. In the first place, the negroes enraged at the treatment accorded them by federal office holding bosses in the South, managed by Hitchcock, have eliminated them from participation in party councils, met in Philadelphia, and drafted protests that will have an effect on the vote.

In the second place, president Charles J. French, of the New Hampshire branch of the American federation of labor, has issued an appeal to laboring men to fight the Taft candidacy, and declares the opposition, universal in the ranks of organized labor, is not based on politics, but that it is from union men. Mass meetings are to be held in every city in the country to carry out the protest.

The third important development of the week was the issuance of a letter by former senator Chandler, calling on the country to support the La Follette candidacy. He bases his argument on the ground that the acts of the administration have nullified the past good work, and says there is collusion between the administration and the "interests" in consideration whereof support is thrown to Taft.

These protests are all from republicans, and they have resulted in bringing the Taft boom to a standstill. All one can hear now in Washington is the question: "Will it become necessary to draft Roosevelt again to save the republican ticket at the polls?"

That the president's name is being used in the South in cases where he knows nothing about it is pretty generally believed in Washington, and the charge is made by the friends of other candidates that the Taft managers have availed themselves of opportunities of all sorts. President Roosevelt is believed to have been on the point of investigating, so as to call a halt, but has not done so.

Vice-president Fairbanks' class has been entered by senator Knox, of Pennsylvania. For several weeks, the vice-president was the only presidential candidate who had the unqualified backing of his state. No attempt was made to invade his state by the Taft forces, although an effort was made by them to get delegates in the Keystone state, unsuccessfully, however.

Charles Hernley, former state chairman of Indiana, was a caller at the White House recently, and told the president that the Indiana delegation would never stop until they had nominated their man. "I told the president," he said after the visit, "that he had entirely misjudged the situation throughout the entire country, and that Taft cannot be nominated. I am firmly convinced I am right in this matter, because I believe the party would make a mistake in putting at the head of the ticket a man who would invite opposition from the negro and labor vote."

"The vice-president is the man who should be president. He has been misunderstood to some extent, but it will not take the public long to understand him after he gets into the White House."

Representative Bannou, of Ohio, recently "stirred up the animals" here by giving out a statement to the effect that the methods used in Ohio to capture a partly recalcitrant delegation for the secretary of war, would probably result in Ohio going democratic next fall. He heartily assailed the methods used and made abitter attack on what he termed the fight on senator Foraker, and intimated that the successor of "Fire Alarm Joe," might be a democrat, as the result of the proceedings.

The friends of the secretary have come in for much caustic comment, too, because of the deal made with "Boss" Cox, of Cincinnati, who was, two years ago, bitterly denounced from the stump by Judge Taft himself. Now, the question is asked, is such a political alliance, with a man who "has prostituted politics," consistent with the claims that have been made by the friends of the Taft boom?

WOULDN'T STAY DEAD.

Old-time friends of Dan Cleary, better known, perhaps, as "the boy of the village," were given a nerve-jarring shock yesterday when that individual put in an appearance around his old haunts after an absence of about fifteen months, and thereby hangs an interesting tale.

Dan had been working in the El Dorado lumber camp at Pino Grande during the summer of 1906, and came out in the fall with the other "lumber jacks." He disappeared about the holidays and nothing more was seen of him around Placerville until yesterday. About one year ago the remains of a man were found on the south fork of the American river, and Coroner Winchell held an inquest upon the same, the result of which was a determination that they were the mortal remains of "the boy of the village," otherwise Dan Cleary. His personal belongings at the lumber camp had never been called for, the size, wearing apparel and all surrounding circumstances apparently making the identification complete. Among other witnesses who assisted in identifying the corpse was Jack Shepherd, who serves refreshments at the Washington, and who was a close friend of Dan, the supposed deceased. Coroner Winchell accordingly laid the remains away with due ceremony in the cemetery and marked the grave as that of Dan Cleary.

Dan insists, however that he is not dead, but, being a native of England, and having secured his first papers three years ago last October while Ted C. Atwood was deputy clerk, anticipate some trouble when he applies to Ted for his final papers.

His Simple Remedy

If men would wash the dishes
And cook and bake and sweep
And keep the fires replenished
And put the kids to sleep
And at the family wash tub
Would labor like a horse,
There wouldn't be so many
Sad cases of divorce.

If men would hand their honeys
Throughout the livelong year
Their pay, without extracting
The price of one small beer,
Would come home in the evening
And by the fireside sit,
For want of paying business
Divorce courts all might quit.

If women never scolded
Or said "I told you so,"
Or asked their darling husbands
To take them to a show,
And smiled till only sunshine
Could live about the place,
The separation lawyers
Might hunt some other case.

But, putting it more mildly,
If men and women weak,
Both being largely human,
Most earnestly would seek
In great and little troubles
To bear and to forbear,
The cases of divorces
Would be a heap more rare.

ITEMS WORTHY OF PERUSAL.

There are as many sides to a man as to a question.

When a man tries not to smoke, he doesn't do anything else.

The more worthless a man becomes, the more grievances he has.

No man is agreeable when he is hunting something that is lost.

To some men, all the dresses worn by women are different grades of calico.

What has become of the men who go to heaven? The angels are all women.

Where are all the men who intended to get rich from patent rights next year?

It is much easier to lose a friend than to gain a vote by political arguments.

There are not many men who can grow old without beginning to look greasy.

Some people get a reputation for being patient because they are too lazy to kick.

After a man has loafed four or five years, he concludes he is entitled to an office.

Spinach doesn't shrink any more in hot water than hopes shrink after marriage.

When does a man have his pleasure? A man of 60 said today he had not had his yet.

Some people imagine the world stands still until it has heard their side of the story.

A lecture is not the worst thing in the world, but it's next to a "reading" by an elocutionist.

If a man loses anything, the rest of the family has to join in the search or be abused by him.

When a man dies, his widow is always expected to kiss the women who come to see her.

If the church has the right idea as to who will be lost, there will be a heap of talent in hell.

When a woman bets, she never puts up any money. And if she loses, she expects you to pay anyway.

The devil has one habit we wish other disagreeable people would imitate: No one ever sees him.

No man is ever as indulgent with his children as he was with his wife's little sisters before he married her.

Tell a young girl she is bright, and not say anything about her looks, and she will think you are slandering her.

When there is a death in the house there is always a great search for the family bible to be used at the funeral.

The fact that two men do not agree should not attract any more attention than an additional drop of water in the river.

It is unfortunate that people do not have the same faculty for getting out of trouble that they have of getting out of work.

When a husband and wife meet on the street, you can tell how they get along at home by the way they smile at each other.

The average strong, healthy boy has such an appetite that his mother has no use for a garbage can except for potato peelings.

Young people are no more to be blamed or what they dream in the daytime, than older ones are for what they dream at night.

It sounds pretty in a report of a social affair to say that the house was illuminated with candles, but it means a lot of grease.

When opportunity calls for a girl these days, it has to wait until she gets all her false hair on, and often goes away without her.

Find the cause of each wrinkle on a man's face, and you will find it was put there by worrying over something that worrying couldn't help.

There are very few people who are really well acquainted with themselves. Do you know yourself so well that you can always tell what you will do?

Every woman believes that her soul grades higher than her husband's because she looks at the flowers when they sit down to dinner, and he looks at the meat.

A man will laugh at the story that his father was once a wild young man, but he keeps still and blushes at the mere suggestion that his mother was once a wild young woman.

When trouble comes to a family, the wife does the cheering up. The average man, when he sees a cloud in the sky, hasn't enough ambition and fight left to open an umbrella.

The people in small towns are more regular church-goers than those in the large towns, because they have nowhere else to go, and people who cannot afford theatres or dances are, as a rule, greater church-goers than those who can.

Have you been out in the woods, and seen Mother Nature's new Easter bonnet? It is of delicate green with a light fringe of dainty crocuses, a crown of violets, and rosettes of pretty kitten-breeches, with streamers of grass. Her milliners, sun and rain, provided the crocuses and flowers. Everyone is invited to attend her spring opening, the rich and poor alike. Especially are the poor invited. Go out into the country, and admire nature's spring delights. The closer you live to nature the longer you will live, and the more you will enjoy life. Take your children with you. CAN'T BE SEPARATED.

Some Jackson People Have Learned How to Get Rid of Both.

Backache and kidney ache are twin brothers.

You can't separate them.

And you can't get rid of the backache until you cure the kidney ache.

If the kidneys are well and strong, the rest of the system is pretty sure to be in vigorous health.

Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

Mrs. Jennie Cary, living on Union street, Placerville, Cal., says: "I was in a miserable condition when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention. I had dull bearing down pains in my hips and the slightest exertion was too much for me. Added to these afflictions was a too frequent action of the kidney secretions which kept me up during the night and greatly disturbed my rest. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they relieved me of every trouble. I confidently believe that they will relieve any one suffering from kidney trouble."

JACKSON VALLEY.

April 28.—Mr and Mrs Joe Kidd spent a few days of last week in Stockton, with Mr and Mrs A. B. McGill.

Mrs Leak Bamert and son, Frank, spent Sunday with relatives in the valley.

Vance Lucas and Roy Bryant killed a large rattlesnake Sunday in the presence of Mr Davis and Miss Adams of Ione. The snake had thirteen rattles, Mr Davis took them as a reminder of Jackson valley.

Mr Emerson and daughter, Gladys, of Elliot, spent Sunday with Mrs A. C. Miner.

Mr and Mrs Corral of Lockford, were visiting relatives in the valley Sunday.

Mrs Kershaw of San Francisco, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs Shelbourn.

Mrs G. Barber and son, James, spent a few days with her sister, Mrs S. Alford.

Mrs C. N. Fessier has gone to Stockton for a few days visit.

Ernest Lucas of Julian district, spent Sunday with his brother Vance, who is working for Kidd brothers.

PLYMOUTH.

April 30.—The 89th anniversary of Odd Fellowship was observed here by a grand ball on the evening of the 25th, which proved a success both financially and socially. The attendance was beyond expectations, as most all of the towns in the county were represented, as well as Placerville, Latrobe and other towns of our neighboring county. Appropriate music was rendered by the celebrated Bower's orchestra, and the raviola and chicken supper could not have been better, while the decorations both in the ball room and dining room gave a touch of beauty to all. Much credit is due the committee of arrangements for the able manner in which they conducted the evening's proceedings.

B. Levaggi, accompanied by two other gentlemen, was riding down the Bay State road Tuesday, when his horse took a sudden notion to speed down hill. Falling, he threw the occupants of the vehicle out. Mr Levaggi sustained a bruised eye, the wagon was damaged to a small extent while the horse came out the worst of all, having been skinned up very much.

Mrs L. H. Butler and two daughters, Sadie and Florence, who have been here visiting friends and relatives for the past week, returned to their home in Sacramento Wednesday.

Mrs J. E. Walton and family left for the city yesterday, where she will remain until after "fleet time."

Last evening a farewell reception was tendered Messrs. Will and Jasper Phillips and their families in Devore's hall. When all had assembled, and quiet restored Thomas Davis, principal of the Plymouth school, rendered some very appropriate remarks, which were pleasingly responded to by both Will and Jasper, and their wives. They all departed this morning for below, where they intend residing permanently. Mr and Mrs Will Phillips have rented their home to T. C. Dugan and wife, who intend to move in about the first.

Mrs Ida Swartz of Nevada, is here visiting her mother, Mrs Carroll, of the Central House.

Mr and Mrs Lawrence Burke went to Sacramento Monday on business.

Miss Mazie Knapp of Oleta, was the guest of Miss Mary Weston, for a few days this week.

IONE.

April 30.—A. A. Davis has been improving and remodeling his residence this last week.

Mrs J. Miller returned to Sacramento Friday, after a week's visit with her folks.

John Toubey, an old veteran and a former resident of Ione, passed away at his home in San Francisco early Tuesday morning, and the funeral was held here after train time Thursday evening.

Miss Ella Watts came up from San Francisco Friday to attend the picnic.

Al. Matley, who has assisted Cecil Wheeler as barber for some time, departed Monday for Nevada, where he will engage in business.

A number of people from Lodi took in the annual Ione picnic last Saturday.

Harold Waddell and Loren Bagley came up from Frisco Friday for a few days' visit with relatives and friends.

Miss Vera Heathman and Mrs Medlock of Los Angeles are guests at the Adams' home.

Miss Laura Mullen came up from San Francisco Tuesday night to make arrangements for the funeral of her aunt, Mrs Mullen, who died in Sutter Creek Monday. The funeral was held here today at one o'clock.

Elworth Adams returned to Berkeley Sunday to resume his work.

Mr and Mrs John Gregory of Point Richmond, came up last Friday for a couple of days' visit with old friends.

Frank Martin returned from his vacation last Thursday, and is back to his post of duty again.

A week's vacation has been declared by the board of the high school, in order that the pupils, who wish to see the fleet come in may do so.

Miss Gladys McKenney of Sutter Creek is the guest of Miss Vesta Maestretti.

AUKUM.

April 28.—Easter Sunday, April 19, passed very pleasantly at Aukum hall. The Bridgeport W. C. T. U. women arranged a program, and with the help of the girls of Pigeon creek school, also their teacher, Miss Mabel Votaw, it was well rendered. After the program very pretty cards tied with white ribbon were passed, and Easter eggs were given the children. The ladies brought the lunch and retired to the picnic tables in the grove near the hall, and in a social way all enjoyed the spread very much. A large crowd attended the affair, coming from Plymouth, Shenandoah valley, Evening Shade and Fairplay. The program was as follows:

Opening song—We are coming, dear leader, by Mrs E. Vennewitz, Mamie Slaven and Clara Hite at the organ; reading—president's address, by Mrs Ada Perry; recitation—Florence McClary; song—The wine cup did it all, by Clara Hite and little daughter Marie, and Mamie Slaven; recitation—Grandma's maxim, by Helen Perry; recitation—The countersins was Mary, Mabel Votaw; reading—Mamie Slaven; song—Tell mother I'll be there, Clara and Marie Hite, and Mamie Slaven; recitation—The bashful school boy, F. Odell; recitation—Lorene, Loree, Ruby Dillon; reading—Mrs Addie McClary; song—The wonderful story, Mrs Warren and daughter, Laura; recitation—The lips that touch liquor must never touch mine, Flora Goffinet; reading—Ruby Dillon; recitation—Viola Biglow; recitation—Grandpa's flower, Marie Hite, song—Saloons must go, Clara Hite and daughter, and Mamie Slaven; recitation—Easter greetings, Daisy Bell; recitation—It I were a flower, Lovella Wrigglesworth; recitation—Vern Biglow; recitation—Wayfaring boy, F. Odell; reading—Life's journey, Mrs Ada Perry; closing song—Some glad day, Mrs Clara Hite and daughter, Mrs Warren, Laura Warren and Mamie Slaven.

SUTTER CREEK.

April 30.—Amopola Parlor No. 80 N. D. G. W. combined business with pleasure last Friday night by the initiation of candidates, and celebrated the 14th anniversary of their order. As usual the occasion was a most enjoyable one and a most tempting banquet served.

Mrs Boro of New Chicago, with her daughter, Mrs Nesbitt of Stockton, were visiting relatives and friends at this place last week.

Louie Katz, a one time resident of this place, is here from San Francisco, and is having his buildings here repainted and renovated.

Charles Mulock visited Plymouth and Oleta Wednesday. His lady friend was with him, and Charles was looking quite happy, as though he enjoyed the trip very much.

John Daneri was out early Thursday morning wearing his new hat, and stepping about more frisky than usual, wearing the biggest grin all over his countenance, just because a twelve pound boy made his appearance in the Daneri home that morning.

Mesdames Chas. Johnson, H. Higgins and Miss Amy Pharis, were visiting in Amador last Monday afternoon.

Mrs J. Richards and baby, with her sister, Miss May Doney, are here from Sacramento, visiting their sister, Mrs Geo. Fraser.

Miss Jones, the trained nurse, who has been in attendance upon Mr Grantzin, who was so seriously ill, returns to her home in Stockton Friday morning.

Floyd Jones leaves Friday morning for a two weeks' visit to Crockett, and Oakland, with his brothers and families, and will also take in the fleet sights.

Charles Richards and father-in-law, Mr Show, returned from Santa Barbara Thursday, where they had been to see the fleet; also visiting Mr and Mrs Herbert Show at that place.

John Hugh Miller, a pioneer, aged 74 years, died at his home in Rancheria the 25th instant. He was a native of Kentucky, coming to California in 1850, and was well known in this community. The funeral was held at the family residence on Monday afternoon, Rev. M. Pickard officiating. The remains were interred in the family plot on the old home place. He leaves a daughter to mourn his loss. The funeral was largely attended.

Mrs Mary Mullen, an old pioneer resident of this place, died at Dr.

Goodman's hospital last Tuesday. Undertaker Daneri took charge of the remains until Thursday morning. Services were held in the Catholic church, and the remains were taken to Ione, and interred beside those of her husband, who preceded her many years ago. She leaves a sister in the East, also a niece in San Francisco. Mrs Mullen was a native of Ireland, about 70 years of age.

Mr Corrotto returned home from Livermore a few days ago, bringing his son, Louie, who was very ill in a private sanitarium there. Louie is still in a critical condition, there seems to be little hope, if any of his improvement, and the family are more satisfied to care for him here in his own home.

Miss Ethel Stribley leaves Friday morning for a two weeks visit to Berkeley, and will also enjoy the sights of the fleet.

Disgraceful Proceedings

Mrs Jennette Lavezzo passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs Lorenzo Arata of the Mason tract about two o'clock Tuesday afternoon. She had nearly reached the ninety year mark in life, so her health had been failing for some time, from the advanced age. She leaves a son, Charles Arata and two daughters, Mrs Lorenzo Arata, and Mrs Mary Lavezzo to mourn her death. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the home of Lorenzo, interment being in the Catholic cemetery. Mrs Lavezzo, was a native of Italy and came to this county in the late fifties, settling near Pine Grove, where she lived most of the time since coming to this county. Since she began to ail, she has lived in town with her daughter.

Judge Rust Sustained
By Appellate Court.

According to the decision of the third district court of appeal yesterday denying an application for a writ of prohibition in the case of Asistine Borello et al vs. the superior court of Amador county, Judge R. C. Rust has jurisdiction in certain arson cases pending.

Borello and his companions made an application to the appellate court for a writ of prohibition asking that the arson case be transferred to another court on the ground that Judge Rust had made certain errors. The contention was on purely technical grounds. The case was heard before the court of appeal yesterday, attorneys for both sides arguing.

In denying the application the court stated that it Judge Rust made errors, the case should be appealed and the appellate court would decide as to mistakes. The cases will be tried before Judge Rust.—April 28, Sacramento Union.

Republican Caucus.

The republicans of township one are requested to meet in the Ledger office at 8 o'clock Saturday evening, for the purpose of selecting a candidate or candidates to be voted upon for delegate to the state convention at the primary election to be held next Tuesday, and also to arrange for the holding of such primary election. By order of the Republican county Central Committee.

WANTED

I want to hear from owner having

GOOD FARM or BUSINESS

for sale, any size and any locality. Not particular about location. If you want cash for your farm or business it will pay you to write me today. I only want to hear from owners who are willing to sell direct to the buyer and without paying a cent of commission to anyone. I am not a real estate agent and I don't accept properties for sale on a commission basis. Agents need not answer. If your farm or business is for sale write me at once and I will send you free full details of my new plan of putting you in touch with hundreds of people anxious to buy. I must hear from you quickly, as I have more buyers than I have properties to recommend. It costs you nothing to write to me and I may have someone who wants your place and will pay your full price. In writing give price and description and state how soon possession can be had. Address

Timber Land. Act June 3, 1878—
Notice For Publication.—2172

United States Land Office, Sacramento, Calif., April 11, 1908.
Notice is hereby given that in compliance with the provisions of the act of congress of June 3, 1878, entitled "An act for the sale of timber lands in the states of California, Oregon, Nevada, and Washington Territory," as extended to all the public land states by act of August 4, 1892, Domenico Gianini, of Volcano, county of Amador, state of California, has this day filed in this office his sworn statement No. 2172, for the purchase of the S E 1/4 of S W 1/4, of Section No. 7, in Township No. 7 N., Range No. 13 E., M. D. M. and will offer proof to show that the land sought is more valuable for its timber or stone than for agricultural purposes, and to establish his claim to said land before U. S. commissioner for Amador county, at his office in Jackson, on Monday the 22nd day of June 1908, California.

He names as witnesses:
A. P. Sheolar, Baldisero Barghella, G. K. Fitzgerald and M. P. Fitzgerald all of Volcano, Amador county, California.

Any and all persons claiming adversely the above-described lands are requested to file their claims in this office on or before said 15th day of June, 1908.

LOCAL NEWS

J. F. Wilson, Dentist, Hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Phone—Office, black 441; residence, black 394; Jackson.

The amusement place in the old Jackson shoe store premises was opened Saturday evening, by John Katto. It drew a crowded house, not only that evening but Sunday afternoon and evening, and a good attendance other evenings through the week. The show consists of moving pictures, illustrated songs by the graphophone, and other features. It will run straight along, and everything points to a success, as a steady popular amusement place. A change of program and pictures will be made twice a week. Parties from the outside should see this performance when in town.

We were mistaken in stating that W. F. Detert was interested in the ditch now in process of reconstruction in the Forest Home district. He has no interest whatever in the undertaking. The ditch is the old Ritter ditch, which formerly conducted water from the Consumnes river to Michigan Bar. It has not been used for years. It is now being put in commission again for the purpose of gravel mining around Michigan Bar. The flumes have to be rebuilt, and the ditch cleaned and repaired almost through its entire length, in the neighborhood of 15 miles.

For Sale or Rent.—The house on Broadway, Jackson. Apply on the premises to Theo. Crocker.

L. Katz, formerly a jeweler of Sutter Creek, but now in the wholesale business in San Francisco, came up from the city in the early part of the week. He has property in Sutter Creek, and his visit here was partly in regard thereto.

The board of supervisors will meet next Monday, when the contract for stationery and hospital supplies will be let.

George Folger left Tuesday morning for Vallejo, where he expects to go to work at the Mare Island Navy yard. He left the job he had accepted on the ditch construction work in the vicinity of Latrobe, and came on to this city to attend the funeral of his uncle, H. S. Folger, and thence to proceed to Vallejo.

Every housekeeper should have one of Bisell's "Cyclo" bearing carpet sweepers, which has superior merits over any other broom or sweeper made. L. O. White, Jackson Furniture Store, has just received a supply, and is selling them from $3.50 to $1.50. Call and get one before they are all gone.

Fred and Mark Eudey left for San Francisco Tuesday, expecting to remain for two or three weeks to witness the arrival of the fleet.

Lewis Love, formerly employed in the Ledger office, who has for some time been employed as clerk in the commissary department of the Southern Pacific in San Francisco, has been compelled to go to the sanitarium at Paso Robles to be treated for a trouble that required a surgical operation. He was operated upon last Sunday.

Wm. J. Mettee's law office is now in the Grant building, rooms 413 and 414, at the corner of 7th and Market. Tel. Market 70. N294t

Kate Cavallero, who has been visiting friends here for the past month or more left Monday morning for Livermore, where she will stay for a couple of weeks, when after seeing the fleet, she will return to Tonopah.

Louis Gluckfeld of the Red Front Store, left for San Francisco last Saturday, for the purpose of consulting some specialist in regard to his sight, one eye having troubled him for some time. He will remain for two weeks, and in the meantime will witness the imposing scenes of attending the incoming of the battleship fleet.

Walter Folger came up from San Jose Saturday to attend the funeral of his father, H. S. Folger, which took place Sunday. He returned to his duties in the telephone office in San Jose on Tuesday. The other members of the family were unable to be present, Mrs. Folger being crippled and unable to travel, and the younger brother being away where information could not reach him in time.

Mr and Mrs Ed. Crowgey left early this week for a visit to relatives in the neighborhood of Railroad Flat, Calaveras county. Mr Crowgey has been troubled with malaria lately, and was recommended by his physician to quit work at the mine for a while, and seek a change of climate in the mountains. Hence, the trip. They will proceed to San Francisco before they return home, and expect to be gone a month.

Michel Krstovich and Miss Stana Angelinich, daughter of Mike Angelinich were married at the Catholic church by Rev. Kearney on last Monday. They left the following morning for San Francisco for a week's honeymoon. Krstovich recently purchased a ranch above New York Ranch, where they will make their home when they return.

Mrs. C. A. Johnson and Miss Amy B. Pharis of Sutter Creek were over here Wednesday afternoon selling tickets for a dance in Sutter Creek, which will be given tonight by the Rebekahs. They succeeded in disposing of quite a number.

The operating room, which the board of supervisors authorized, the superintendent to fix up and equip at the county hospital, is about completed. Mr. Lemoin expects to have it ready by the time the board meets next Monday, so that the members can inspect it. The room is in the front part of the building, with plenty of light during the day, while for any night work there is both gas and electricity. Everything necessary in the surgical has been procured and placed where they are ready on the moment.

Mrs M. J. Voorheis received word from Greensborough, New York, the first of the week of the death of her mother, Mrs. Manchester, on the twentieth of last month. She was about eighty years of age at the time of her death.

M. L. Smith Notary Public and Stenographer, Court St., Jackson, Telephone Black 413.

Members of the Ursula Parlor No 1, N. D. G. W. are requested to assemble at the ballroom Sunday, May 3, at 1.30 o'clock p. m. to attend our memorial services. Please bring flowers. The public is cordially invited to be with us.

Dr. J. F. Wilson, wife and child, left this morning for Santa Cruz, to visit with relatives until after the arrival of the fleet at that place.

Mrs Fred Jackson and daughter, Olive, will leave in the morning, to spend a week with the former's mother in Madera. From there they will go to Sacramento, where Mrs Jackson is a delegate to the convention of the Rebekahs to be held there on the twelfth.

Mrs Dr. Gall left this morning for San Francisco, where she will witness the arrival of the fleet.

PIONEER FLOUR always has been and still is the best.

Mrs. Max Ladar Passes Away.

Jos. Gluckfeld of the Red Front, received a telephone message Tuesday conveying the sad intelligence that Mrs Max Ladar, a relative of his, died in San Francisco on Monday evening, at about 11 o'clock. No intimation had been previously received that she was dangerously ill, and the news of her demise created a shock through this community, in which she was well known, having been a resident here for twelve years or more. It seems she was sick but three or four days. She leaves besides her husband, a family of six children, five girls and one son. Deceased was a native of Roumania, aged 41 years.

Max Ladar was until about 18 months ago, a resident of this city, having followed his business of tailor here for many years. Here most of his children were born. After the San Francisco disaster he moved permanently to the city, having previously purchased a home there. He has been in the tailoring business there. Much sympathy is felt throughout this community for the stricken husband and family, the deceased having been highly respected and esteemed wherever known.

Louis Katz, who up to a few years ago was the owner of the jewelry store in Sutter Creek, was here and in Sutter Creek for a few days this week on business. He returned this morning to his home in San Francisco. He said that his son George is now in the electrical contracting business in San Francisco, having returned a short time ago from Salt Lake.

A marriage license was issued last Monday by the county clerk to Paul Kascia and Neika Petrusich, both of Jackson. They probably be married on Sunday.

Mrs D. B. Caminetti, who resides at Kennedy Flat, will leave within the next couple of weeks for probably Santa Cruz and Pacific Grove, where she will spend a couple of months for the benefit of her health.

S. Dal Porto, who until recently was manager of the Kennedy boarding house, has purchased a forty acre ranch, set in vines and fruit trees near Oakley in Contra Costa county, and is now living there.

Mr and Mrs Robert Ousby and Mr Ousby's nurse, Miss Postle, left Wednesday morning for Venice, near Los Angeles, for the benefit of his health. He is just recovering from a very severe attack of typhoid fever, so Dr. Gall, the attending physician, thought it best that he should have a change, and receive the benefit of the sea air. They will probably rent a cottage so that Mr Ousby's nourishment may be properly cooked. They will be gone for a couple of weeks or more.

Perie Hambric left Wednesday morning for Jamestown, Tuolumne county, where he will make some tests of the tailings from one of the mines in that vicinity.

James Farrell of Middle Bar had two sisters come out to California about a year ago on a visit. They are from New York. A few days ago they visited their brother at Middle Bar, and left again Sunday morning by way of Valley Spring, Mr Farrell accompanying them to the railroad station. One of the sisters had not seen him for 41 years, and the other for 25 years.

Jos. Crannis of Middle Bar, in cutting some limbs from a tree a week or so ago managed to inflict an ugly gash in the fourth finger of his right hand. He neglected to have it surgically attended to at the time, believing that the healing process would go on unassisted. The result was that the wound has grown worse, and he has been compelled to have the member professionally attended to.

John Laventa, who has been laid up for the past couple of weeks, is still confined to his bed from rheumatism.

Frank Supilo, who has been suffering from an attack of rheumatism a week or more, is still at the Goodman hospital in Sutter Creek.

Mrs. Tom Peek, who has been here visiting relatives for the past three weeks, returned to her home in Oakland yesterday.

Mrs. Helen Starr, sister of Mrs. Robert C. Bole, and two children arrived here last evening from Pratt, Kansas, and will spend a number of weeks visiting with Mr and Mrs Bole. Mrs. Bole went to Galt yesterday morning to meet her.

The Volcano and Jackson stage changed its leaving time from the winter to the summer schedule, the contract with the government being that they do this on the first of May. The stage will now leave Volcano in time to catch the one leaving here for Martells, and will leave here in the evening after the arrival of the stage. No trip was made today, but tomorrow the driver will take up a large bus, as about sixteen people expect to come from Volcano and Pine Grove and go to the city to see the fleet.

Lorenzo Arata came up from Sacramento Wednesday to attend the funeral of Mrs Lavizzo which was held yesterday.

GOT IT BAD.

(From Amador Record.)

Jackson, Calif., April 22, 1908. Owing to press of business, your correspondent has not been able to furnish his usual highly edifying brain-storms to an expectant public and only patriotic duty causes him at this time to again take up the pen.

He has noticed that the city and county government is all wrong. Extravagance is rampant. As much as $2,500 has been paid out in one instance for cleaning the streets, and the job was so poorly done that the editor of the Ledger was not swept into the creek with other garbage. The omission may have been an oversight, or it might have been done for the purpose of seeing how much more of a stretch he could kick up before being eliminated.

The county is misgoverned because the board of supervisors by asserting their American manhood in the performance of their lawful duties have refused to be dictated to by a "moss-back," who has become insane on the subject of retrenchment and reform since he cannot get his hand in the county treasury.

The city is misgoverned for the reason that his Kangoorship is not allowed dictatorship pertaining to everything connected with the city government. Even the city ballots were printed wrong; no doubt this was owing to the fact that they were not printed in the Ledger office. Printing rates as established by the board of supervisors are all wrong. Everything is in a chaotic state. There is but one remedy for all these evils. Amend the law so that the people of the county can select Richard Webb to have full charge of all matters that have heretofore been attended to by a board of supervisors; also while at it make it possible for a man to hold two offices at the same time and give him full charge of city affairs.

This is the only way the extremely misgoverned city and county can be set aright.

Of course it is possible that the city and county is not misgoverned, only from a "Webb" standpoint, and the people are not—I am sure—paying attention to the vapors of a disgruntled, and despicable old man in his dotage.

Amador.

Judge Rust, county clerk Huberty, and district attorney Vicini returned yesterday from Sacramento where they had gone to appear before the district court of appeals to answer the affidavit of the attorneys for the two Borello brothers and Domenico Manzo, who are charged with having burned the Summit house.

Chris Meiss returned Wednesday evening from a visit at his father's ranch below lone.

Celebrate Anniversary of Odd Fellowship.

Last Saturday was an ideal day for the picnic which the Odd Fellows and Rebekahs of lone gave in honor of the anniversary of the former. The preceding days had been rather stormy, but the morning of the picnic broke as clear and bright as could be. Large crowds gathered from all over the county, and remained at the grounds most of the day. The arrangements committee had provided for sports for the amusement of the people. They included different athletic sports and various games, into which everyone entered with spirit. There was a baseball game between Plymouth and Clements, the latter winning by a good margin. The basketball game between the lone high school boys and the team of the freshman class of Berkeley college drew the most attention. It was a very close game from the start, neither team being able to show its supremacy. The score at the end of the second half stood 11 to 11. A girls' team from Oakdale was to have played the girls from the lone high, but they failed to put in an appearance. W. H. Greenhalgh was president of the day, Claude Wilson the marshal, Miss Emma Boorman assisting, while Mrs Jennie Katenstien was the orator. The Jackson brass band furnished the music. In the evening a dance was held at the pavilion in town with music by the Lodi orchestra.

The same evening in honor of the anniversary of Oddfellowship, Plymouth gave a dance, Bowers orchestra of Stockton, having been engaged to play for them. The hall was crowded with dancers.

Beduced Rates.

Following is a letter sent from the I. & E. office to the various ticket agents of the company:

Effective May 2nd, 1908. The lone and Eastern R. R. will sell in connection with the Southern Pacific Co. round trip tickets to San Francisco and return, at the rate of one and a third fare for the round trip. The occasion being the visit of the Atlantic Squadron to the Pacific coast. The return limit on the tickets being ten days from date of sale. That is, a ticket sold on May 2nd will be good for returning up to and including the 12th of May, and a ticket sold May 10th would be good returning May 12th, and so on. The trip from Jackson, Sutter Creek and Amador City to San Francisco and return will cost $7.50. From Martell the round trip will cost $6.85.

While coming to her home in Stockton the other day by train from Valley Springs, Mrs Antonio Gugliardi, wife of Antonio Gugliardi, the barber, died of acute tuberculosis, with which she had been suffering for some time. The deceased was 22 years of age and was the daughter of Mrs Mary Musto.—Calaveras Chronicle.

Chas. G. Celio, jr., left for Meyers Station last Saturday to prepare that famous road house for the summer travel. He was accompanied by Mrs W. McNeil and daughter, W. Sackett, and Frank Wright. Mr Celio writes that he found from two to five feet of snow between Strawberry and the summit but thinks the road will be clear with two weeks more of fine weather.—Mt. Democrat.

A party was given Mrs J. Muldoon at the home of her mother, Mrs J. Scully, at the Martin place last Monday evening by the Native Sons and Daughters, the occasion being that Mrs Muldoon and family intend going to Berkeley soon, where they will join Mr Muldoon and make their future home.—Echo.

One is developing a new enterprise. In early days when this country was placer mined, men had to stand by the sluices with forks and shovels and throw out the quartz boulders that accumulated in the boxes. These may be found at the present time lying along each side of almost every gulch that was mined, and on the broad flats, great piles as large as houses are scattered about like high ant hills. Science has at last found for these boulders, like for many other apparently worthless things, a use; they are being shipped and made into cement. More than 500 tons of these boulders were shipped from the lone depot last week.—Echo.

On Friday, the 14th inst., the Calaveras county bank filed a suit in the superior court of this county for the foreclosure of a real property mortgage and a chattel mortgage upon all of the properties of the Angels Iron Works, a corporation situated in the town of Altavilla, in this county, and the town of Jamestown, in Tuolumne county. The original mortgage which was given over four years ago to the bank was for the sum of $17,000, with interest at the rate of 10 per cent per annum, payable monthly. Four thousand of the principal has been paid and the interest has been paid up to the 1st of March, 1908. Besides all the real property of the company, consisting of foundry buildings and lots in Altavilla and in Jamestown, the complaint covers all tools, appliances, and machinery in both places. Also a private telephone line between Altavilla and Jamestown.—Citizen.

The sale of the old Stillwagon mine near Omo to a party of Oakland men will, we predict, result in great and lasting benefit to the mining interests of El Dorado county. Mr J. D. Crawford, secretary and manager of the company, has been at the mine for the past thirty days and during that time he has apparently solved a problem that will result in renewed activity around Omo, Fairplay, Grizzly Flat and Indian Diggings. The Stillwagon is equipped with one of the finest and most up-to-date mining plants in the county, including a five-stamp mill, with electric power. The ore taken from the mine at different locations assays $40 and up as high as $180 per ton, and yet tests of milling it would only yield $11 to $16. Mr Crawford has therefore decided to mill no more ore until he has a cyanide plant ready for operation in connection with the mill. He left for Oakland this morning to arrange for the installation of a ten-ton plant, and will get it ready for business at the earliest possible date.—Nugget.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

With the dawn of this Easter Sunday, Pope Pius' decree on marriage, emphasizing the sanctity of the relation, will go into effect in every Roman Catholic parish in his country. Under the decree, a radical change is made in the present discipline with regard to mixed marriages. Hereafter such alliances will not be valid unless contracted before a priest having jurisdiction over marriage in the place where the marriage is performed. Even when a dispensation has been obtained the marriage, in order to be valid, must be performed by a priest having such jurisdiction. The limitation of the jurisdiction of priests in this respect is one of the chief clauses in the papal document. In plain words, no priest can go into another city, town, or village and perform a marriage ceremony validly unless he has first received authorization from the episcopal authorities or their administrators. The only exception to this is in the case where the circumstances are such that "marriage is necessary to relieve conscience," as in the case of a person about to die, and so legitimize any offspring there may be.—Athenian Globe.

During its target practice in Magdalena Bay the battleship fleet apparently hit an immense whale. The wounded monster made its way far up the coast and was tossed ashore by the tide dying. The monster is between 45 and 50 feet in length and has two holes through the middle of its back which undoubtedly were made by cannon balls, stray or otherwise.

LIVED AFTER HANGING.

Innumerable instances of resuscitation after hanging are recorded. Henry III granted a pardon to a woman named Inetta de Balsham, who was suspended from 9 o'clock on a Monday to sunrise of Thursday and afterward "came to." Dr Plot tells of a Swiss who was hanged up thirteen times without effect on account of the peculiar condition of his windpipe, it having been converted into bone by disease.

Annie Green, a servant girl, was hanged at Oxford in 1650 and recovered fourteen hours afterward under a doctor's treatment. Mrs Cope, who was hanged at the same place eight years later, also recovered. On Sept. 2, 1724, Margaret Dickson was hanged at Edinburgh and recovered while being carried to the grave. She lived for many years afterward and was universally known as "Half Hanged Maggie Dickson."

A housebreaker named Smith, was hanged at Tyburn in 1705. A reprieve came when he had been suspended a quarter of an hour. He was cut down, bled and revived. William Duell, hanged in London in 1740, revived and was transported. A man hanged in Cork in 1765 was taken in hand by a physician who brought him round in six hours, and we are told the fellow had the nerve to attend a theatrical performance the same evening.

Richard Johnson, hanged at Shrewsbury, Oct. 3, 1696, obtained a promise from an undersheriff to place him in the coffin without changing his clothes. After hanging half an hour he still showed signs of life; and on examination it was found he had wrapped cords about his body connected with hooks at the neck which prevented the rope from doing its work. The apparatus was removed and the man hanged effectually.

It may be offered in explanation of the cases mentioned that there was no drop used at executions in those days, the culprit usually suffering asphyxia without the cerebral column being broken.—London Tit-Bits.

Does Your Heart Beat

Yes. 100,000 times each day. Does it send out good blood or bad blood? You know, for good blood is good health; bad blood, bad health. And you know precisely what to take for bad blood—Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Doctors have endorsed it for 60 years.

One frequent cause of bad blood is a sluggish liver. This produces constipation. Poisonous substances are then absorbed into the blood. Keep the bowels open with Ayer's Pills.

THE OUTER DARKNESS.

By SIDNEY H. COLE.

Copyright, 1907, by C. H. Sutcliffe.

Ackroyd moved his chair from the corner that he might have an unobstructed view of Drusilla's face. She was seated near the piano lamp, ostensibly examining the score of a recent musical farce he had brought her. Her chin rested in one little upturned palm, and her eyes were fixed pensively on the music in her lap. Ackroyd watched her silently for some moments. He was loath to disturb that pose.

"I saw Ted Briggs today," he said at length, and he said it with the evident expectation of a flutter of excitement on Drusilla's part. In this, however, he was disappointed. She turned a page of the score without raising her eyes.

"Did you?" she said calmly. "I did," he affirmed. "Had a sort of an all gone air about him."

Drusilla was silent.

"Looked as if he needed some one to sympathize with him—or kick him," Ackroyd pursued.

Another page of the score was turned, but Drusilla said nothing.

"Haven't seen him round here lately," said Ackroyd, and his tone suggested much.

"It's something over a week since he called last," said Drusilla innocently.

"Now," said he, rising and bowing gravely.

Ackroyd smiled grimly, but Drusilla's eyes being on the score its meaning was lost on her.

"Same old story, I presume," said he.

"What's the same old story?" she said, with some emphasis.

"Got his conge, eh?"

"What are you talking about?"

"Ted Briggs."

"Well, what about him?"

"He seems to have been cast into the outer darkness with his innumerable predecessors," Ackroyd observed.

Drusilla shrugged her shoulders.

"I don't see why I should fret myself over that," she said.

"For casting him there, of course," said Ackroyd severely.

"Admitting I did," said Drusilla with challenge in her voice.

"Ted Briggs is a particular friend of mine," Ackroyd began.

"Must I marry all your particular friends?" said Drusilla with sardonic deference.

Ackroyd's eyes flashed angrily.

"You knew all the time he was talking things seriously," he remonstrated.

"You might have a little mercy on such chaps."

"Oh, don't let's squabble every night you come here," said Drusilla wearily.

"Here's the 'Palm' song. Shall I sing it to you, Max?"

She seated herself at the piano and sang with all her inimitable little drolleries. When she had finished she swung about to face Ackroyd.

"Did that soothe your savage breast, Maxie?" she asked sweetly.

Ackroyd scowled. "When will you ever be serious?" he said.

"I was never so serious in my life," she asserted. "Indeed I am completely weighed down with responsibility and remorse. You don't imagine he'll take prussic acid, do you, Max?" she ended in tragic tones.

Ackroyd looked at her with cold disapproval.

"Between old friends"—he began. But Drusilla at once cut him short.

"Now, Max, I'm awfully sorry, but if you begin to scatter any of that fatherly advice about here you'll have to go home, and I counted on a delightful evening with you here," she said tentatively.

"Nevertheless," said Ackroyd, "I shall say what I set out to, be the penalty what it may."

Drusilla rested her elbows on the keys and looked at him archly.

"I was about to remark," Ackroyd went on, "that in the social sea you are a sort of uncharted reef on which the affections of many serious minded young men are shipwrecked."

"What a metaphor!" she taunted.

"Their shipwrecks don't seem to be alarming calamities, however. They survive them."

"And there are others who are in danger of sailing straight on to the reef, knowing all its dangers," said he.

"Dear me!" said Drusilla. "They should take a course in navigation."

"The fear of ridicule may keep them away for a time, but in the end they're bound to tempt fate," he said.

Drusilla regarded him amusedly.

"I think it would be interesting to meet some of that class," said she.

"I can introduce you to one," said he.

"When?" Drusilla inquired eagerly.

"Now," said he, rising and bowing gravely.

"You?" she gasped.

"Even I," he said, unsmiling.

There was a somewhat embarrassed pause. Ackroyd broke it.

"I shall never be happy until I offer myself to you. I don't expect to be happy afterward. I shall merely join the others in the outer darkness, and the suspense will be over."

Drusilla rested her chin on her palm again. A bit of added color flushed her cheeks. Her eyes were pensive.

"I've been very much a coward," said Ackroyd. "I was afraid you'd laugh. That is why I've been silent so long."

He leaned forward in his chair. His manner was pleadingly earnest. Drusilla moved uneasily.

"Why don't you offer yourself, then, and have it over?" she asked.

Ackroyd squared his shoulders. "I do offer myself, Drusilla," said he.

"My silence has been such a long one the laugh should be doubly merry," he added bitterly.

Drusilla turned to the piano. She ran her fingers over the keys in soft little minor harmonies. Ackroyd waited impatiently; then he strode to the piano and bent over her. Something glistened on her lashes, and there was a shining streak down either cheek.

"Good heavens!" cried Ackroyd in sudden comprehension. He laughed happily.

"It—it—Isn't funny. I—I—d—don't feel a bit like laughing," confessed Drusilla.

And Ackroyd was thereupon relieved from any fears of "the outer darkness."

The Animal Machine.

The animal machine wears out (grows old) in its blood vessels; other machines wear out at the points of friction or strain. The kind of blood we keep sending day by day through our blood vessels decides for us the length of life. If the blood be made pure by suitable food and drink and kept pure by fresh air and sunshine, by good action of the bowels, kidneys, lungs and skin, by enough but not too much active exercise and finally by a restful mind—too large to worry and fret—the vital rubber or elastic tissue in the walls of the blood vessels will age normally and last the allotted time. If the blood stream be frequently polluted by excesses, errors in diet, late and irregular hours, vicious habits, overwork, habitual confinement indoors, lack of exercise from any cause or a fretted, anxious mind, the blood vessels become irritated and inflamed and in time diseased or hard and inelastic, which means premature old age, disability, death.—What to Eat.

Stung the Lawyer.

The famous Beau Hickman of Washington was once a witness in a pending case and, having testified in the course of his examination in chief that the client of the attorney on the other side was without funds, was being sharply cross examined by that barrister. Hickman averred that the client had himself told him of his penniless state. The lawyer insisted that the exact language be repeated. Hickman hesitated, but when pressed under threat of contempt proceedings he finally said, "Well, sir, if I must answer, he told me this morning that he had no money." "Well, sir, what language did he use?" "Why, I asked him to lend me half a dollar, and he said he couldn't, for you had robbed him of every cent of his money and if he didn't get out of your clutches very soon his children would starve."

By the time the laughter had subsided and the lawyer had time to collect his thoughts the case was decided against him.

Whittier at Close Range.

Whittier belonged to those natures who would advance with firmness and joy to martyrdom in a good cause, but are never comfortable in society, and who impress one with the idea that they would like to run out of the door at any moment. Yet few enjoyed the society of congenial friends as did the Quaker poet. No one relished a good story more or related one with better grace. His sense of the ludicrous was very vivid, and the absurdities of life and its situations struck him never more forcibly than when they involved himself. As Whittier's nephew and biographer has asserted, it would be a mistake to suppose that gentleness was a necessity of his nature. His was in reality the result of resolute self control and the habitual government of a tempestuous spirit. Indeed, the poet had his shrewd, assertive and almost vindictive side, else he had never been so successful a politician and reformer.—Caroline Ticknor in Harper's Weekly.

One of the Mean Ones.

A worthy old Gentleman in the Country, having employed an Attorney, of whom he had a pretty good opinion, to do some Law Business for him in London, he was greatly surprised on his coming to Town, and demanding his Bill of Law Charges, to find that it amounted to at least three Times the Sum he expected; the honest Attorney assured him that there was no Article in his Bill but what was fair and reasonable. Nay, said the Country Gentleman, here is one of them I am sure cannot be so, for you have set down three Shillings and four Pence for going to Southwark, when none of my Business lay that Way; pray what is the Meaning of that Sir; Oh! Sir, said he, that was for fetching the China and Turkey from the Carriers, that you sent me for a Present, out of the Country.—"Joe Miller's Jest Book," 1739.

American Linen.—A Cup That Cheers.—Spare the Birds.—The Varnish of Stradivarius.—Pure Nitrogen.—New Chromium.—The Moon Without Effect on Clouds.—Metallic Ferments.—A Pocket Telephone.

Though flax is grown on 4,000,000 acres in the United States, only the seed is utilized, and millions of tons of flax straw are burned yearly because the high cost of labor has made linen manufacture a failure. The straw must be retted, scutched, heckled, softened and bleached in about thirty processes before the finished fabric is ready for the market. The retting or rotting process, as followed in Europe, alone requires from sixteen to thirty weeks. Adopting a combined mechanical and chemical method of disintegration, Benjamin C. Mudge, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, greatly reduces the labor and time necessary, and by processes yielding cloth from the straw in twelve hours, he expects to create an American linen industry. He removes the gum and softens the tangled mass, reducing it to a glossy, white and tough fiber. The European method yields only 240 pounds of fiber per ton of straw, wasting the seed and other materials, but the new process claims 500 pounds of fiber to the ton, and also converts the waste in part into paper pulp and saves the tow.

"Caffeineless coffee" is a late German product, made by dissolving out all but a trace of the caffeine of raw coffee. The flavor, aroma and appearance are practically unaffected, and but slight change can be detected even in chemical composition. The effects upon users have been most remarkable. All harmful influence has disappeared, and strong infusions are used with impunity by nervous, dyspeptic and other sufferers from caffeine poisoning.

The extermination of the birds, the "policemen of the air," is a possible calamity of an extent not easily conceived. Competent authority predicts that it would not only make successful agriculture impossible but would be followed by destruction of nearly all vegetation.

The rediscovery of a lost art is claimed by Frank Della Torre, of Baltimore, in a gum varnish that seems to be identical with the old Italian varnish that made the violin a successful musical instrument. In the time of Columbus the transparent orange-red varnish was used for the gondolas of Venice, but in the sixteenth century a sumptuary edict made black compulsory for gondolas, and a quantity of this varnish was made available for the new industry of Cremona, and was used exclusively by Amati, Guarnerius and Stradivarius until the supply was exhausted about 1730. The material seems to have been made from colored gums imported from tropical Africa. On the violin the varnish had a distinguishing and remarkable effect in damping out the upper harmonics, leaving the pure fundamental tone, and thus giving freedom from harshness, with great carrying power. In violins coated with the new varnish all harshness has been displaced, tests showing very favorable comparison with old Cremona violins.

Chemically pure nitrogen, hitherto believed to be practically unobtainable, is now frozen out of liquid air in the new process of Prof. H. Erdmann. When liquid air is evaporated at atmospheric pressure, the nitrogen becomes gaseous at 195 degrees below zero and the oxygen at 182 degrees, and an intermediate temperature causes nitrogen to distill off in somewhat impure form. The nearly pure gas serves the purposes for which nitrogen is ordinarily required. The new process makes it possible to obtain the chemically pure, which is done by placing liquid air in a good vacuum, when the rapid vaporization of part of the liquid chills the remainder, solidifying the nitrogen in crystals that can be separated from the liquid oxygen left.

Chromium prepared in the electric furnace by Moissan proved to be slightly soluble in molten copper. Further investigation has revealed a new form of chromium, which is crystalline, has a density of 7.1, is chemically active, and burns with a bright flame when heated alone in the air, being attacked at red heat even by nitrogen.

The supposed power of the full moon to disperse clouds, in which meteorologists have been gradually losing belief has been just investigated again, this time in South Africa by J. R. Sutton. In observations at Potsdam from January, 1894, to June, 1900, Meissner found no such dispersing power, but that there is a minimum of cloud about the time of the new moon and a maximum just after full. Mr Sutton concludes that these are just the apparent results we might expect if it is assumed that the moon has no influence whatever. In South Africa the cirrus and cirro-stratus disappear at sunset, but the rising moon makes them visible again, and the 8 p. m. observations from January, 1900, to January, 1907, show considerably more cloud between the third and eighteenth lunar day than between the eighteenth and third.

The passage of an electric spark between two metallic electrodes in distilled water produces a solution or suspension that is called an electrolytic metallic ferment or hydrosol, and is claimed to have the properties of diastatic ferments. The different metals yield hydrosols having the same action, although that of palladium is said to act better and more regularly than others. These substances are administered hypodermically, and are recommended for pneumonia, rheumatism, typhoid fever, diphtheria, influenza and many inflammatory diseases. A new work by Prof. Albert Robin, a prominent French authority, explains the physiological and pathological action, although other physicians doubt that there is really any action at all.

In the novel portable telephone system patented by N. L. Weingott, Warsaw, Russia, jack boxes are connected to the lines at convenient places, and a pocket apparatus is given each subscriber to carry. The telephone ends in a plug that is connected to any jack-box. The jack boxes are to be adjusted periodically, and in due time the subscriber must pay his rental and get a new plug, or he will be unable longer to use his telephone.

An Attorney's Coup.

(Original.)

Having a case in court, I was waiting until the one on the docket was disposed of. A young girl was trying to break her father's will. He had been bedridden for some years before his death, his sister had taken care of him, and he had left her all his property on her verbal promise that she would take care of his daughter, his natural heir. It was claimed that the old man had been incompetent to make a will and that his sister had used undue influence to make him do so in her favor. At any rate, she had but meagerly fulfilled her promise to provide for the girl who should have inherited.

The attorney for the plaintiff was physically and mentally a splendid man; the attorney for the defendant had a bad case and resorted to petting. The girl from whose claim he was defending his client sat motionless, with her face toward the jury. Her countenance wore an expression of habitual sadness.

As the case proceeded the attorney opposing her case seemed to be disturbed over the effect her personality was having on the jury. There was little available evidence to prove her claim, and he had no doubt but for this personal charm that he would win his case. Finally he determined to take advantage of a statement made by his antagonist to forestall this effect.

"It's impossible," said the girl's advocate, "that my client should have seen all that was going on in that household for the reason—"

"If your client," interrupted the counsel for the defense, "could not see what was going on in that household with eyes which she is now endeavoring to win the jury to her side, then no pair of optics can see anything."

His opponent stood motionless, with his eye fixed upon the pettifogger, while the seconds were being ticked away. He neither spoke nor gave sign that he intended to speak. The silence of the courtroom was unbroken. Judge, jury, even the clerk of the court, who had been driving a pen, looked at him fixedly. The thrust had jarred upon their sensibilities, and they watched intently the lips from which a defense was expected. The girl sat apparently unmoved.

At last her defender relinquished his statuesque rigidity and, after slowly raising his right hand in gesture, began to speak in a voice which, had not the courtroom been perfectly still, would have been inaudible.

"There are eyes," he said, "that will perceive evil where no evil exists, because when turned in upon themselves they can see no good. There are eyes that can see no evil because introspection reveals only purity. But, whether they see good or evil, they are blessed with the power of sight. When their eyes are opened in the morning they may revel in a beautiful world slowly emerging from the night shadow. For them the dawn unveils the plains, the valleys, the hills or the mountains. They may see the waves of ocean rolling with their green concave and white, shaggy manes in upon the sands, breaking the sunshine into myriads of sparkling gems.

"But there is more, far more than this, to delight them—the forms and faces of those they love. The lover may look upon the features of her who, in his eyes at least, is always beautiful. The mother may see her newborn babe lying beside her and experience therein the great joy of her life. The young may look with reverent affection on those who have begotten them. These and myriads of other objects are the heritage of those who have been blessed with sight."

The speaker paused, then continued in a still more impressive tone:

"But what shall we say of those condemned to live in perpetual darkness? For them nature has no pictures. They may feel the pressure of a hand, but can see no smile of welcome nor the lovely light dart from the eyes of those they love. They are prisoners in a dungeon."

The speaker paused again. Every eye except that of the young girl whose case was being tried was fixed upon her defender. Hers were fixed straight before her. Lowering his voice almost to a whisper, her advocate added:

"Gentlemen of the jury, my client is blind."

It was some time before the sounds incident to a courtroom recommenced. When they did they served for a background to the monotonous reading by the judge of his charge to the jury. No one of the jurymen listened to it, for the mind of every one of the twelve was made up. The pettifogger had furnished the counsel for the plaintiff with a lance which the latter had hurled back, shattering the defendant's case. When the reading had been finished the foreman of the jury announced that they could come to a verdict without leaving their seats. He then announced that they had found for the plaintiff.

There was a demonstration in the courtroom which the judge was unable to check. The girl's attorney told her that there were many present who desired to offer congratulations. She stood up, and every person in the room passed her with a pressure of the hand.

The will was broken; she was rich. When the last person had congratulated her a double line was formed, through which, on the arm of her counsel, she walked out of the room and down to a carriage.

Then for the first time those left behind looked for the defendant's counsel. He had slipped out unnoticed.

LOCAL EDITORIAL COLUMN.

IT MAKES ALL THE DIFFERENCE.

We publish in another column an article from the Amador Record emanating from the Jackson correspondent of that paper. We reprint it not because of any merit attaching to the communication, either in sentiment or language; neither because of its demerit, which must be self-evident to the most casual observer. We can afford to ignore the fact that the writer seems to be suffering from a severe attack of Webb-on-the-brain, a disease that has been prevalent around the court house for, lo, these many years, and which has assumed a particularly virulent form of late years. It is of course needless to say that the monomaniac literature emanates from that democracy-infested quarter. The disease has become chronic, and there is reason to fear that it will result in a permanent fracture of the young man's intellect. We say 'young man,' because we cannot conceive of other than youthful folly being responsible for abuse founded mainly on the tendency of human nature to grow older instead of younger. The editor of the Ledger cares nothing for this crusade of scurrility, engineered by the hidden hands of those in authority. He is losing no sleep on that account, and the process of whitening hairs has not been hastened one whit by these ever-recurring exhibitions of party venom. He has the utmost faith in the soundness of the body politic as a whole, scarred though it be in spots by individual degeneracy. He has lived long enough to know that there are some men whose good opinion is not worth having—whose censure and villification is the highest compliment they can pay to honest endeavor.

The feature of the creed that we desire to direct attention to is the spirit displayed in the effort to ridicule the idea of economy in the management of county affairs. This is the one significant fact that appeals to every voter and taxpayer in Amador county—in official circles the notion of exercising economy in public business is pooh-poohed to the limit. It has been a busy time in the collector's office lately. Property owners have been called upon to pay the final instalment of state and county taxes. They alone realize the weight of the hand placed upon their industry by these exactions for the protection afforded them by government. As good citizens they cheerfully contribute of their hard earnings all that is necessary to support the local government on a scrupulously economical basis. They know that frugality—which means good management—is the one thing needful to success in any branch of business. This is no new rule: it is as old as the human race; its practice or otherwise makes all the difference between a competency and a sheriff's sale. It is moreover notorious that while the county has been at a standstill in wealth and population, the demands upon the taxpayers for the maintenance of the governmental machinery have been growing more burdensome with the passing years. They are clamoring to know the why and wherefore of this ever-gathering burden. And the answer to their wail of distress comes in tones of mockery direct from the tax-eating class that the talk about economy is a humbug—"the vaporings of a disgruntled and dyspeptic old man in his dotage." This is the spirit of the gang in control, and who want to keep in possession of their big-pay-for-little-work jobs. This play of indifference means that they are enjoying the situation, and don't propose to bother themselves concerning matters of economy. This stand dovetails with what occurred before the board of supervisors at their last meeting. The printing rates were up for discussion and determination. The board manifested a disposition to protect the taxpayers from extortion, and the rates they did finally establish show that for long years the county has been paying in one instance over three times as much as a reasonable profit would permit, and in nearly all cases the rates were lowered from 25 to 50 per cent. In the face of this sweeping curtailment, with the presumption that the knife might be otherwise applied with equally saving effect, the people who have to do the paying act are told that economy is not wanted. To cap the climax while this reduction was in progress, the sheriff's office actually interceded in behalf of the higher rates. Such an attempt to sacrifice public weal for partisan ends we have never before witnessed, even in this realm of extravagant ways. Voters, regardless of party considerations, will do well to ponder over these signs of the times, and vote accordingly when the next opportunity presents

NEW FORM OF REGISTRATION
BLANKS AGREED UPON.

Sacramento, April 18.—In 1897 the Legislature passed an act authorizing the registry of land titles under the Torrens system and providing that the attorney general, state controller and secretary of state should comprise a commission to prescribe uniform blanks and books for the recording of titles by county clerks and recorders. In accordance with the law in question, state controller Nye, secretary of state Curry and attorney general Webb, met in the latter's office at San Francisco Monday and agreed upon a new form of registration blanks and books.

Copies of these will be printed at once and sent to every county in California. It is expected the new system will meet with favor and come into general use throughout the state. The commission has delayed meeting because there has been no demand for it to carry the Act of 1897 into effect. Lately, however, requests have been made for the registration blanks provided for by law and the commission took action. To record titles under the Torrens system costs but little more than to register under the present system. As soon as the Torrens plan comes into use the expense of transferring titles will be almost nothing.

The blanks and books selected were conceived by attorney Cobb of the attorney general's office. At the meeting Monday, Webb was elected chairman and Cobb secretary. The latter has been working for some months on the new documents and his style of blanks and books was approved by the commission.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broadcast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits, and made them medicines of the vulgar, mineral, vegetable and animal kingdoms, and so has placed his formulas at the disposal of all who are not afraid to subject them to the closest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomachs, biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients of the composition, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral agents or other poisonous or injurious agents and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value; also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak, nervous, over-worked, "run-down," nervous and debilitated women, were employed long years ago, by the Indians for medicinal purposes affecting their squaws. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "Squaw-Weed." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As matters improve and the various processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

Republican Committee Meets

At a meeting of the republican county central committee held this week for the purpose of taking action for the election of four delegates from Amador county to attend the state convention, it was decided that the allotment of delegates be as follows:

Township 1, 2 and 4, to elect one delegate each.

Township 3 and 5, to elect one delegate jointly.

This was deemed the fairest way that could be devised under the circumstances.

It is left to the party members in the different districts to take the necessary action, except that primaries are fixed to be held Monday evening, and it was recommended that a caucus be held in each township on Saturday evening to decide upon candidates to be voted for at such primaries.

In regard to taking a vote on the presidential candidate question no action was taken, so that no such straw vote is likely to be taken.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

POOR OLD DIVES!

Don't long to be rich. John D. Rockefeller attended church last Sunday, and was attended by three detectives. His married daughter in Chicago is in a constant state of terror, because of threats to murder her children. Mr Rockefeller is very fond of attending church, having been a religious man all his life, but when he attends, the pastor usually abuses him in a silly, untruthful and brutal way. He cannot attend a theatre, because the play is liable to be devoted to abuse of Rockefeller.

And the unusual part of the story is that John Rockefeller is one of the most worthy and kindly of men. Outside of the fact that he has accomplished what the rest of us have failed to accomplish—that is, make a great fortune—nothing can be truthfully said against him. His private life is perfect, and has always been. He has given away a hundred million dollars, he is not a miser, and does not gloat over his gold. Because of his great genius, Rockefeller has greatly reduced the price of one of the common necessities, coal oil. Men now living remember when coal oil sold in Atchison, as a special bargain, at a dollar a gallon. The best coal oil now sells in Atchison at 8 and 10 cents a gallon. Corn, which formerly sold in Atchison at 10 cents a bushel, now brings 60 cents a bushel. There isn't a business man in the United States who doesn't practice the business policies practiced by Rockefeller.

Yet how we all hate him.

And for no other reason than that he is a great genius. It's a mean trait, this hatred of Rockefeller; one of the meanest we know of in human nature.—Atchison Globe.

Passes Away Suddenly.

Word was received here Monday of the death of George Drendel in San Francisco on the morning of that day. He had been sick, but it was not thought that his condition was serious, so that the telegram came as a surprise to his brother Joseph. He went down Tuesday. The funeral was held on Wednesday. He was a man about forty years of age, and leaves a wife, two sons and four daughters, and one brother to mourn his death.
